Parties and Entertainments--Personal Mention

Messrs. Frank Chipman, W. E. Chipman and A. W. Wheeler of New York agents for the Skyland Hosiery Co., were here Tuesday in business conference with the superintendent, C. P. Rogers.

Prof. C. E. Blackstock of the Hendersonville City School, delivered a most excellent address before the East Flat Rock School Betterment association on last Friday afternoon. He offered many valuable suggestions along the line of effort for the association.

Rev. J. W. Davis, a superannuated Methodist minister of the Kentucky conference, who is spending some time here for his health, preached a strong sermon at the First Methodist church last Sunday morning.

H. E. Stillwell, formerly of this city, but now of Atlanta, was in Hendersonville last Friday. Mr. Stillwell was secretary and treasurer of the Skyland Hosiery Company for several years and has many friends here who were glad to see him again.

Misses Louise Rector and May Young of Asheville, were week end guests of the former's sister, Mrs. J. M. Deal at Flat Rock.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. King of Atlanta, are spending several weeks at "Aagle," their country place at Flat Rock.

Miss Minnie Crane, who for the past several months has been the efficient bookkeeper and cashier for the Mutual Printing company left Wednesday morning for Pelzer, S. C., where she will spend a few days with her parents. From Pelzer she will go to Greenville, S. C., where she has accepted a position with the Greenville Daily News. Miss Crane is a very popular young lady and has a host of friends in Hendersonville who exceedingly regret her departure. Their best wishes accompany her to her new home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Woodward left Monday for Durham to visit Mr. Woodward's parents before going to their winter home in New Smyrna, Fla.

Rev. W. F. Womble will return to Hendersonville this week and will occupy the pulpit at the First Methodist church Sunday morning and evening at the usual hours.

Walter Tinsley of Dandridge, Tenn., was a Hendersonville visitor last week.

Miss Ora Dermid spent Saturday in Asheville.

Miss Ellen Hinds of Fruitland Institute, was a Hendersonville visitor recently.

Miss Kate Carter of Mills River, is visiting relatives and friends in Hendersonville this week.

G. E. Eaves of Chattanooga, Tenn., is visiting his son, C. B. Eaves.

In spite of the inclement weather Friday night the play "Cabbage Hill School," given at Shaw's Creek graded school, was enjoyed by a number of people. The receipts from the box supper, and refreshments was $30. Since the bad weather kept away a great many who wanted to come, it has been requested that the play be given again Thursday night, December 21, at 7:30 o'clock, after which an oyster supper will be given and sandwiches, ice cream, cake and coffee will be served. Everybody cordially invited.

Charles E. Starling has resigned his position as manager of the Postal Telegraph company's office here, and will spend the holidays in Washington, N. C., with relatives.

Play at Fassifern. Saturday night the Episcopal girls entertained Fassifern school by presenting a clever little play entitled "Der Nefte Als Onkel." The play was translated from the German into English by Miss Kelton and Miss Vinton Liddell. Miss Kelton's untiring efforts in directing the play made it the great success that it was.

The following is the cast of characters: Valcour.....Elizabeth Pendleton, Capt. Frank Dorsigny, Marjion Bethune

Major Dorsigny.....Leonora Blount, Mrs. Dorsigny.....Corinna Moore, Sophia Dorsigny.....Ella Lindsay, Mr. Mirville.....Josephine Bird, Mr. Lyman.....Carolina Yancey, Mr. Gaspard.....Susie Taylor, Champagne.....Vinton Liddell, Two servants.....M. Cobb, J. McMillan, Policeman.....Sallie Lou Pachard.

A salad course and hot chocolate was served, and dancing continued until a late hour. Sixteen dollars was cleared after all expenses were paid.

Miss Hart Hostess. Miss Erlene Hart was a gracious hostess on Saturday evening. Games were the chief features of the evening. Miss Hart's guests were Misses Sallie Patton, Annie Patton, Lola Wynne, Alice Herring, Louise Rector and May Young of Asheville and Messrs. Cooper Hamiter, James Gray, Arch Corlier, Keith, Dr. B. F. Cliff, Prof. Schenck and Mr. Cowdy of Fleet School, and Prof. Cathey of Flat Rock School, and Mr. Stewart.

Entertainment at East Flat Rock. The ladies of the East Flat Rock School Betterment Association gave a bazaar and oyster supper last Saturday evening from six to eight o'clock for the benefit of the school.

Following the supper, the literary society of the community pulled off a most laughable comedy in the way of a mock trial in which Oscar Lockaby charged Hobart Harvey with the grave offense of stealing the heart of his sweetheart. D. C. Hood wore the visionary judicial robe and conducted the trial. Z. A. Nicholson and S. L. Jones were the prosecuting attorneys, while F. B. Michael and T. R. Cash appeared for the defendant. The star witnesses for the plaintiff were Misses Ellie Pace and Ruby Westall. Virgil Norman and Lawton Harvey gave strong evidence in favor of the defendant. The cross examination of the witnesses by the lawyers was a most amusing part of the play. The speeches by the pleaders at the bar kept the audience in a roar from start to finish. After the judge's charge, the jury, composed of four young ladies and four young men, retired and after a short deliberation rendered the decision that the accused was guilty and the judge ordered the sheriff to take charge of the prisoner until a $5,000 bond could be furnished. The affair was original, was a perfect parody on a genuine trial and created no end of fun.

The Episcopal Bazaar. The ladies of the Guild of St. James Episcopal church held a bazaar on Tuesday in the building formerly occupied by the book store. It was, by far, the largest one that has ever been held in Hendersonville. Mrs. R. P. Freeze, president of the Guild, was the general chairman and how well she directed was evidenced in the results on Tuesday.

The entire room was divided into departments and was most artistically decorated under the direction of Misses Katherine and Matilda Carson. Presiding over the fancy work booth was Mrs. E. G. Stillwell, assisted by Mrs. Michael Schenck. The housekeepers' booth was managed by Mrs. Massey and Mrs. Nichols. The candy booth was in charge of Mrs. Trux and Miss Margaret Hatch. The Japanese booth was especially attractive and was presided over by Miss Katherine Carson, assisted by Mrs. Tom Valentine, Mrs. E. W. Ewbank and Miss Hooper. Little Misses Edwina and Josephine McMillan were dressed as Japanese maidens and were presented to the many visitors to this booth. Mrs. Wiltshire Griffith had charge of the apron and cap booth.

The dining room was the chief center of interest during the dinner hour. Miss Matilda Carson was directress of the dining room and kitchen departments. In this she was ably assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Lester, Mrs. Willcox, Mrs. Green and Mrs. Perry. Miss Emily Ewbank was chief in serving in the dining room and her assistants were Miss Electra Twyford, Miss Katherine Bacon, Miss Lucy Dermid, Miss McCochrane, Miss Lester, Mrs. Shipp and Mrs. Elliott. John Ewbank was treasurer of the day.

The array of articles in the various booths was beautiful. Especially in the fancy work department was there a wealth of proof that clever fingers had done splendid work.

In the dining room everything good that an intellectual taste could crave —from turkey to sweets—was on sale, and many people gave their cooks a furlough of a few hours and betook themselves to the bazaar for a dinner suited to any epicurean palate and served to a queen's taste.

The ladies had certainly worked to make a grand success and as a result of their labors they were pleased to realize about $200 clear of all expense. Whenever the women set out to do a thing they do it—always.

Mrs. Womble Guest at Tea. Mrs. W. F. Womble, of Hendersonville, was in the receiving line at a recent tea given in Winston-Salem given by Mr. and Mrs. Norfleet. A Winston-Salem exchange says of the affair:

"On Saturday afternoon from four till six, at her home on West Fifth street, Mrs. M. W. Norfleet entertained at a small and informal, though altogether delightful tea, when her charming sisters, Mrs. Leon Willingham, of Macon, Ga., and Henry Le Roy Izlar, a recent bride, were the honorees.

"The guests received a cordial welcome from Mrs. J. K. Norfleet and Mrs. R. C. Norfleet, who awaited them in the hall; a wealth of scarlet berries, ferns and palms made the hall very attractive. Passing to the drawing room the guests were received by the hostess, wearing a handsome gown of white satin, with trimmings of real lace and pearls, and a corsage of pink roses and valley lilies. Mrs. Willingham was gowned in white embroidered silk with overdress of tulle and real lace, and carried an armful of pink roses, orchids, Parma violets and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Izlar was lovely in her wedding gown of white satin, tulle, real lace and orange blossoms, with a corsage of Parma violets. Mrs. W. F. Womble, of Hendersonville, stood next, wearing a handsome gown of white silk, her flowers being violets and valley lilies. Mrs. Thomas Barber, Jr., wore yellow taffeta, with opalescent passementerie trimming and Parma violets; Mrs. Norman Stockton was becomingly gowned in pink satin and tulle.

"This room was pleasingly adorned with fragrant pink roses and Enchantress carnations.

Mrs. George Norfleet showed the guests to the dining room, where they were greeted by Mrs. Buhman. At the daintily appointed tea table Mrs. Baxter S. Moore and Mrs. B. S. Womble poured tea and coffee. The table was covered with handsome Venetian lace and embroidery three silver baskets holding lovely pink carnations, the handles tied with pink tulle. Silver candlesticks held softly shaded candles with green and silver shades, the whole giving a distinctly pleasing effect. Serving the delicious salad course and sweets were Misses Emily Gray, Nell Horton, Hazel and Elizabeth Norfleet and Nan Norfleet.

"The guests said goodbye to Mrs. Andrew Gregory of Lancaster, S. C. "While this was not a large entertainment, it was eminently charming in every detail, and thoroughly enjoyed by the fortunate guests."
